From the Commissioner

Commissioner Dr. Joe Fitzpatrick

The Commissioner's office has been busy this past legislative session with LD1447 "An Act To Authorize Increased Borrowing by the Maine Governmental Facilities Authority To Support the Maine Correctional Center in South Windham." Many thanks to all who were involved.

Last month our department had its second annual "Take Your Daughters and Sons to Work Day." The intention was to provide a safe, educational experience inside the world of corrections. The professionalism, creativity, organization and teamwork that was put into this day continues and once again demonstrates the quality work accomplished by members of this department on a daily basis (see page 10).

I hope everyone had a chance to join in the festivities in honor of "National Correctional Officers and Employees Week." I want to acknowledge and thank each and every one of you for the great work you do every day! This is your time to take a moment to feel appreciated and appreciate one another. This department and State are fortunate to have staff so devoted and committed to making our facilities and communities safer.

I sincerely thank all of you for your dedication and hard work.

On the Cover: Special Operations Group

By Harvey Bailey

Steve Markwith, retired Chief Firearms Officer, is seen here in midst of members of the Special Operations Group during long range rifle training. It was Steve's vision that one day designated personnel would be trained and equipped with precision weaponry. After many years, this has come to pass. Pictured here are two of the precision rifles that have been purchased. Director of Operations Gary LaPlante invited Steve out to the range to acknowledge his foresight and show him the result of something he set in motion so many years ago.

On May 26th, Maine State Prison (MSP) Warden Randall Liberty, Deputy Warden Troy Ross, and Industries Manager Ken Lindsey attended the “The Moving Wall” Vietnam Veterans Memorial Ceremony in Thomaston, Maine. The event was held at the General Henry Knox Museum on High Street in Thomaston, Maine. “The Moving Wall” is a traveling half-size replica of the monument in Washington, D.C., that memorializes the more than 58,000 Americans who died during the Vietnam War.

MSP Industry Manager Ken Lindsey and his team built the ramp and walkway for the wall (see page 14). Lt. Burnham and Sgt. Burns led the MDOC Honor Guard in a memorable presentation of the colors during the opening ceremony.

Said Warden Liberty, “I could not have been more proud of the Maine State Prison’s participation in this initiative honoring our veterans.”

Thank you to everyone who participated in this project.

Supporters of Victim Services Team Runs and Walks 5th Annual One in Five 5k

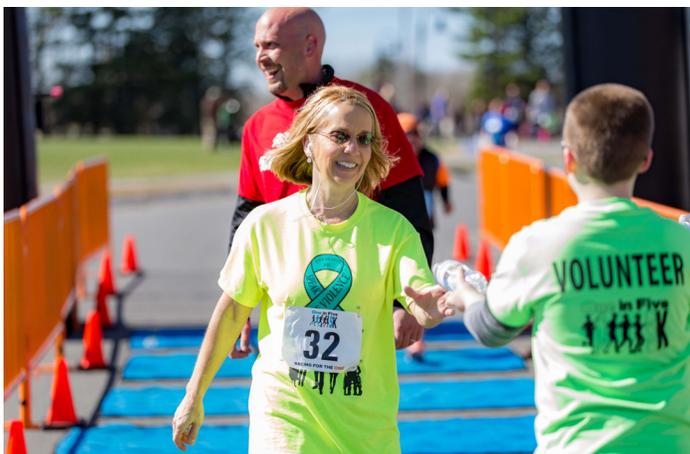

On April 24th, at Thomas College in Waterville over 600 people ran or walked in solidarity against the harsh reality of the impact of sexual violence in our Maine communities. Informed by the current Maine statistic of an estimated one in five individuals in Maine have been affected by sexual violence (Muskie School of Public Policy, Maine Crime Victimization Rates, 2011), the Sexual Assault Crisis and Support Center hosted the 5th Annual One in Five 5k Race. The event took place in the month of April to observe Sexual Assault Awareness Month.

All proceeds from the event benefited the Sexual Assault Crisis and Support Center in providing services for survivors of sexual abuse. Services provided free of charge to the members of the Kennebec and Somerset counties' communities in need include a fully staffed and highly trained sexual assault support-line available 24 hours a day, support groups, justice system advocacy, school-based prevention education, and a children's advocacy center.

MDOC's 2nd Annual Bring Your Daughters and Sons to Work Day

By Jane Tower

Our second annual "Take Your Daughters and Sons to Work Day" was an amazing success with a full-day agenda for two sites: central office and Maine Correctional Center. Presenters shared their expertise from several areas of the department providing the audience a variety of interactive educational demonstrations.

Augusta's agenda consisted of taking a bus to the State House for a tour, visit to the Maine State Museum, traveled to the new courthouse for an empty courtroom mock trial experience. Then returned back to the office for an afternoon filled with a catered lunch, a meet and greet by the Commissioner, presentations from the MSP Chaplain, the Director of Industries, MERC/MARC Self Defense, and the Inner Perimeter Security Team which concluded the day with a demonstration by our K9 canine Kane.

In Windham we were welcomed by Warden Landry who shared his experiences in corrections. The guests enjoyed meeting a few puppies and learning about the puppy program through the Kennebunk Animal Welfare Society. Interesting presentations and demonstrations were shared by the MDOC Honor Guard, Security Recruitment, Juvenile Community Services, Adult Community Services, Role of the Corrections Officer, Industries, and Food Services. Lunch was catered by Southern Maine Reentry Center and two of our own MDOC chefs participated with our guests in making pasta. The rest of the afternoon led us with presentations by Medical, the Inner Perimeter Security Team and the day was wrapped up with a visit from Canine Rex demonstrating his role in corrections.

I believe that by sharing the various components of our department, helps educate, enlighten, and open doors to the world inside corrections. It was gratifying to witness the interactions and enjoyment on everyone's faces as they participated in the activities. We are looking forward to making this, now annual event, grow.

We have had wonderful feedback from those who enjoyed the day as much, as the children did:

Please accept sincerest thanks from me and my son for the work you did setting yesterday's events in motion. We had a wonderful time, and the generosity of the Department far exceeded anything I expected. It's not very often in Corrections that I feel comfortable bringing my children into my world, but this was exciting, safe, and educational, and I can't wait to bring my daughter next year.

Thank you very much for coordinating the Bring your Son's and Daughter's to Work Day. Both of my kids had an

Roll Out of R&R2

From May 25th to 27th, the Maine Department of Corrections Adult Services rolled out the Reasoning and Rehabilitation 2 (R&R2) program with a “Train the Trainer” class at central office. This is the department’s first program for adult males on probation. The program is used internationally and has been shown to reduce recidivism. This program was jointly funded by Maine Department of Corrections and with a grant from the Maine Community Foundation.

Carol Carothers LCPC, and Probation Officer Joyce Williams instructed this class made up of probation officers and community member partnerships. As a result, low cost cognitive behavior treatment will help prevent incarceration for clients statewide. Look for a class starting near you soon!

National Crime Victims’ Rights Week

Submitted by Lynn Boynton, Office of Victim Services

April 10-16, 2016 was National Crime Victims’ Rights Week. This year’s theme was Serving Victims, Building Trust, Restoring Hope. Each year the Maine Chapter of the Parents of Murdered Children hosts a luncheon. This year, staff from the MDOC Office of Victim Services—Director Tessa Mosher, victim advocates Debbie McAllian, Lynn Boynton and Joanna Stokinger—attended the event held at the Le Club Calumet in Augusta.

The event highlights the work of the Parents of Murdered Children, while honoring those who have lost their life to murder and their surviving family. Families were encouraged to bring a picture of their loved one for the remembrance table.

Each year, the National Office for Victims’ of Crime issues a proclamation for “Crime Victim’s Rights Week” which was signed by Governor Paul LePage and read out loud to the group by Tessa Mosher.

This year’s event featured two guest speakers. Lieutenant Jeffrey Love of the Major Crimes Unit of the Maine State Police spoke about the Maine State Police and the divisions and units within in it. Lt. Love explained the process of and those involved in handling a homicide investigation while highlighting his work in the Major Crimes Unit.

Alison Gingras, Maine State Crime Lab spoke of her role at the Maine State Crime Lab. Alison explained how evidence was gathered during her beginning years with the crime lab and spoke of advancements in technology. A recent change is fingerprints can now be compared digitally on a computer, rather than with the use of a magnifying glass examining a finger print on a card. Alison also spoke of advancements in technology we may see in the future.

Prison Industries Involved with Many Community Projects

By Ken Lindsey, Maine State Prison Industries Manager

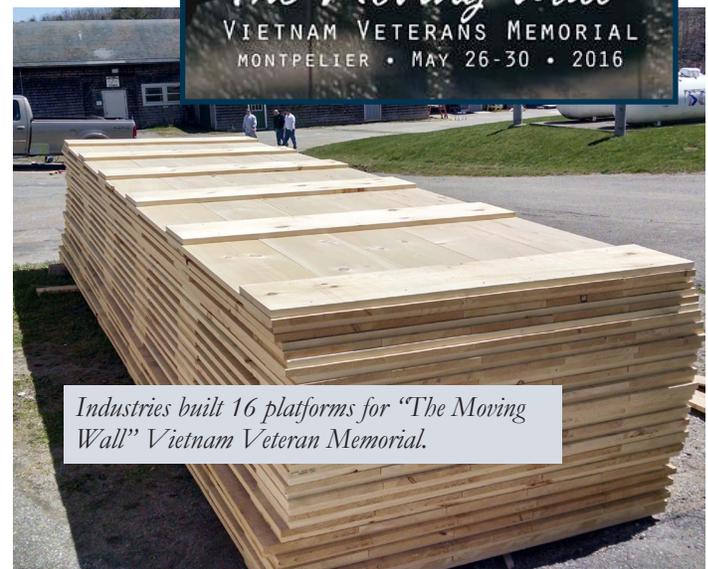

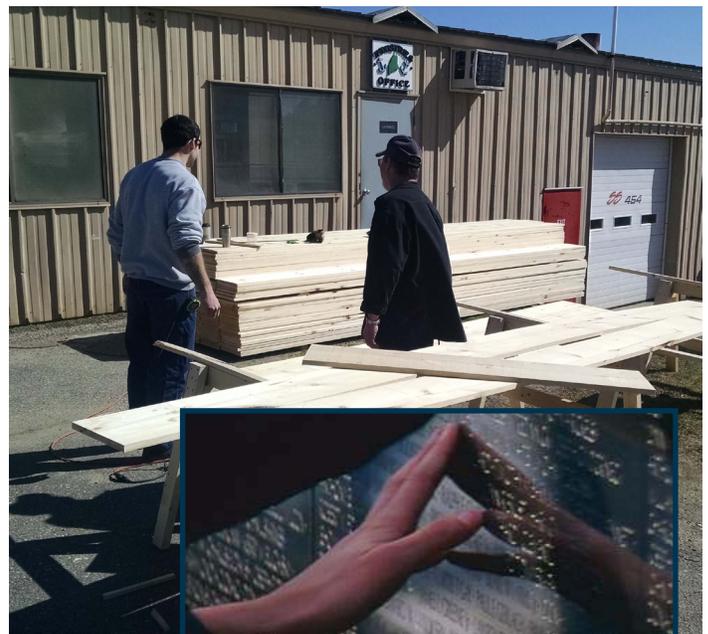

Maine State Prison (MSP) Industries prides itself with reaching out to the community and being a good partner with community organizations. Some of our recent projects include:

- Industries made canoe paddles for Trekksers' "Paddle Art Auction". Trekksers is a non-profit, outdoor-based mentoring program that connects young people with caring adults through expeditionary learning, community service and adventure-based education. MSP Industries made 50 canoe paddles for this event which will then be painted by local artists and auctioned off on July 13th. Proceeds from the paddle auction will help fund the many programs Trekksers provides for local youth.
- Industries built benches for the non-profit McLaughlin Garden and Homestead located in South Paris. The benches will be placed throughout the two acres of gardens for visitors to relax and enjoy the beauty of the numerous flowers located throughout the gardens.
- Industries partnered with Maine Woodturners to assist with the Eagle Canes Project. Industries made cane staffs which are then top with a carved, painted eagle head. These unique eagle-headed decorative canes are made available to Maine veterans. This is an exciting project for Industries as we have many veterans who participate in our program. This is a cooperative project with Maine Wood Turners supporting Maine Wood Carvers which supports Maine veterans.

- Industries was asked to participate in the "The Moving Wall"—a Vietnam combat veterans memorial on display at the Knox Museum in Thomaston, Maine.

The memorial wall is a half-scale replica of Maya Lin's original design located on the National Mall in Washington, D.C. and was exhibited May 26th through May 30th on the grounds at Montpelier. Industries built the 16 platforms placed in front of the wall sections. Correctional Trades Shop Supervisor (CTSS) David Lavoie and his Bolduc Correctional Facility crew did a great job building the platforms. We are very proud to help our veterans.

- Industries was asked to build two six-foot carved signs for the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Thunderbay. The Thunderbay is based in Rockland and spends winters breaking up ice on the coast and rivers like the Kennebec. Thunderbay recently spent two months clearing ice on the Hudson River in New York (for a video see: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fHmE-Zd12jY>).

Growing Green at Maine State Prison

Maine State Prison's (MSP) greenhouse is open and flourishing! Just this spring, prisoners and staff have experienced fresh produce from the prison greenhouse for the first time in a couple of years. Due to staff shortages, vegetable and plant growing operations were dramatically scaled back. However, a demonstrated commitment to the program from the MSP executive team, Correctional Officer (CO) John Adams and 10 prisoner workers has resulted in the delivery of 80 ounces of thyme and 260 French breakfast radishes to the prison kitchen for cooking and consumption.

In addition to the vegetable program, CO Adams reported that the vermi-composting (red wiggler worms) has resulted in rich castings and improved compost. Traditional composting of organic kitchen wastes is occurring in conjunction with expanded greenhouse operations. This composting is the first phase of comprehensive facility recycling and composting program.

MSP Celebrates “National Correctional Officers and Employees Week”

By Alan Gregory, MSP Staff Development Coordinator

During the week of May 1-7, the Maine State Prison (MSP) celebrated “National Corrections Officer and Employees Week” (see back page). The week was full of breakfasts, barbecues, and officer recognitions.

On Monday there was a planned BBQ for B shift and on Thursday one planned for A shift. However, this being Maine, the weather being more than just a reason for polite discussion, it factored into the preparation and planning. The long-term forecast was dismal for Monday. Buckets of rain and a cold biting wind was expected. Being proactive, the BBQ was postponed until Tuesday, by late Friday afternoon. The cookout did not happen but doughnuts, muffins and fruit was provided and many availed themselves of the opportunity to not have to explain about the sugar around the mouth.

On Tuesday morning the arrival of the breakfast sandwiches was welcomed and devoured with gusto.

Deputy Wardens Ross and Walden manned the grills at 10:30 a.m. burgers and hotdogs were soon turned to mouthwatering and far too tempting, deliciousness. Officers and staff were soon lined up for the tasty morsels, accompanied by all the “with-its” to make “Burgers Royal” and “Cheese Dogs.” Both Deputy Wardens were soon pushing their wares in the form of double and triple helpings assisting officers and other staff push their glycemic indexes through the roof. The same was probably true for the night shift at 2100.

Senior Staff Accountant Sally Russillo had graciously volunteered her services as the “ticket giver.” Every officer and employee was issued a number raffle tickets, equivalent to their years of service. Ernie Harrington needed a dump truck to transport all of his tickets to the “prize boxes.” The recruit academy officers each received a single ticket. Unit Manager Tony Cartlidge and another anonymous donor graciously gave each of the new officers extra tickets from those allocated to them. Prizes this year consisted of donations from Prison Industries, the Employee Benefit Committee, and Lori's Café.

On Wednesday, MSP Warden Randall Liberty arranged a Town Hall Meeting where officers were recognized for their years of dedicated service (see page 21). Certificates and pins were awarded for years of continual service.

On Thursday the next shift was on duty, and low and behold, the quintessential ice breaking topic of the weather again steps up and ruins the plans! More buckets and cold wind expected—only in Maine. The BBQ was postponed to the following day.

Bring on the trusty Deputy Wardens Ross and Walden and Sally Russillo with the tongs and spatulas. Déjà vu! With the possible exception of the ticket issuer being Captain Christian Melquist—he handled the “ticket giver outer” duties with aplomb (for an hour or so anyway). He was relieved later to mix and mingle. To be fair, Janice Peasley and Sherri Black had done stints as ticket ladies too. Sally Russillo was otherwise occupied as a tour guide for a group of DAFS folks who had come to MSP with the ideal of standardizing Industries business operations. Director of Security Operations Gary LaPlante was present to thank all the officers for their dedication and hard work. The staff enjoyed the sunny lunch break and a BBQ was provided.

Many of the senior staff availed themselves of the opportunity to converse with those folks who they do not see very often and judging from the laughter it was not all shop talk. On May 11th, another Town Hall Meeting was held to recognize the alternate shift officer's years of service to MSP.

It was a great week of staff recognitions and appreciation. A huge "thank you" to everyone who made the week such a success.

Maine State Prison Promotions

By Warden Randall Liberty

On May 11th, three correctional sergeants were promoted to correctional captain at a well-attended ceremony at the Maine State Prison (MSP).

Ryan Fries began his career as a correctional officer at MSP on 1/3/1995 following six-years of service with the United States Navy. He was promoted to correctional sergeant on 8/14/2005. During his career at the Maine State Prison, Captain Fries has served as a Master Scheduler, was instrumental in the development of the staffing matrix and the implementation of the TimeTrak system. ## DAFS Staff Visit Maine State Prison

On May 5, the Maine State Prison hosted leadership from several DAFS (Department of Administrative and Financial Services) bureaus throughout the state in order to promote OneDAFS, an initiative put forth in 2015.

Scott Ferguson, Director of the Corrections Service Center, organized the visit to bring other departments into the fascinating world of Corrections. Most of our guests had never been inside the prison, and they were very eager to hear about our programs, how we handle staffing, different housing assignments and how the leadership team interacts with the DAFS Service Center employees working within their own facility. The visitors from DAFS also had a full tour of our facility, finishing off looking at a cell in the Special Management Unit.

The DAFS leaders were treated to presentations by Warden Randall Liberty and Deputy Wardens Troy Ross, Michael Tausek and Robert Walden. DAFS employee, Sally Russillo (Senior Staff Accountant, Corrections Service Center) also gave a presentation. The leadership team discussed issues which affect both our employees and inmates. One of the topics generating the most interest was current staffing and how we are able to retain officers with such a difficult job. Deputy Warden Troy Ross explained that the culture change here at the Maine State Prison and the subsequent understanding of both occupational hazards and stress levels through better training, have helped leadership and the staff themselves be more able to deal with potential problems before officers leave for other employment. Ms. Russillo discussed how changing the culture within her own DAFS team has made an improvement in how the customer is served as well.

The tour brought our guests to see the newly updated staff dining hall, the Industries program hard at work, the Medium Unit - where we got to meet a couple of the puppies and their handlers in the puppy program, the activities building, and the SMU (Special Management Unit). The DAFS guests seemed very impressed by what they saw and now have a healthy respect for the prison atmosphere. The tour wrapped up with a small gift from our Industries showroom, donated by the program.

Dedication of The Nelson G. Riley Conference Room

A dedication ceremony was conducted on March 30, 2016 in remembrance of Deputy Warden Nelson G. Riley who passed away in 2011. The conference room in administration was renamed the “Nelson G. Riley Conference Room.” Mr. Russell Worcester provided commentary on Nelson’s career that spanned 40 years at the Maine State Prison and Warden Liberty presented a dedication plaque to family members. There was a large attendance of employees, family members, and friends. Nelson was well known as a leader and a friend throughout the Maine Department of Corrections and he is missed!

Executive Officer Discusses Benefits of Maine State Prison's High-Risk Security Patrol

By Warden Liberty Randall

Since October 2015, officers from the Maine Department of Corrections' Special Operations Group (SOG), a tactical team formed, trained and certified by US-C SOG in 2013, have been patrolling inside Maine State Prison on a daily basis accompanied by certified K-9/handlers and armed with shot guns. This is the first time weapons loaded with less-than-lethal rounds have been allowed among the general prisoner population. These SOG operators in full gear patrol daily, for the Maine State Prison.

US-C SOG trained the SOG team to perform high-risk security patrols in pairs, a micro unit, or to operate solo. While there are seven SOG officers employed at the Maine State Prison, SOG officers employed at other facilities, rotate to carry out patrol duty at the prison. Some have suggested that there is not enough violence or threat of violence at the prison to necessitate the high-risk security patrol, but Commander Mark Clevette said he looks at SOG presence as an insurance policy. Though the MDOC's incident mapping data shows relative calm at the prison for the past couple years, Clevette believes

Recovery Coaches at MSP

On May 3rd, Maine State Prison (MSP) launched the Recovery Coach Program when nine prisoners became certified substance abuse recovery coaches. This program, sponsored by Maine Alliance for Addiction Recovery (MARR), and instructed by Darren Ripley, enables coaches to assist other prisoners in their addiction recovery journey.

A Recovery Coach is a peer who has direct experience with alcohol and/or drug addiction recovery, and who completes training to provide an array of support services. The Recovery Coach helps open the door for people wanting to begin the recovery process by meeting with a person to help her/him find community-based support and resources for a healthy recovery. The coach and recovering person work together to create a Recovery Wellness Plan. Recovery coaches go through an intensive 30-hour training. Coaches serve as a personal guide and mentor, suggesting strategies and resources to aid in managing the transformative nature of recovery and empower the recoveree to sustain a life in recovery.

In the future, MSP and MAAR will utilize the Connecticut Community for Addiction Recovery (CCAR) model. MSP is the first prison in New England to implement this program inside a correctional setting.

that this is the “SOG effect.” Before then, he said, “It was increasingly more violent. Before we came in and did the initial training, the atmosphere in the prison was fairly tense, to the point that administration felt that prevention was needed. Once inmates saw SOG training, it kind of quelled everything down... it acted more as a deterrent.”

In the eight months the patrol has been operating in the prison, the SOG officers have not had to diffuse any violent situations, and no rounds have been fired. We are not inside patrolling to bully or antagonize the prisoner population. The SOG team officers are the silent professionals, present to be the calm to the chaos, when a critical situation arises. SOG allows us to provide a methodic, well-rehearsed, well-trained measurable response to any incidents that may arise. Keeping the staff, volunteers, and prisoner’s alike safe in a potentially un-safe environment.

Sweat Lodge at Maine Correctional Center

By Sue Carr, Deputy Warden

A sweat lodge ceremony was held at the Maine Correctional Center on April 29th. We greatly appreciate Brian Altvater and Richard Sillyboy taking the time as they both travel a very long distance to help us make the sweat happen. Two sweats were held, one for 13 men and one for 4 women. The existing lodge needed to be rebuilt as the boughs were bent and wouldn’t support the tarp.

The sweat lodge—also called purification ceremony or simply sweat—is a dome-shaped hut used by Indigenous peoples of the Americas for ceremonial steam baths and prayer. Traditionally lodges were covered with the hides of buffalo, bear or moose. Today, the animal skins have been replaced with blankets, plastic sheeting and tarps to retain the heat and the steam.

Dean Darien Retires

A luncheon was held on April 22nd to thank Dean Darien for his many (27) years of State Service (October 4, 1989-April 29, 2016). Dean was affectionately known as “the Print Shop Guy.” He printed items for the entire MDOC. His attention to detail and perfection always resulted in a wonderful product! We will miss his “can-do” attitude. In the interim, Greg Royer, MCC Industries Manager, will be managing the Print Shop until a new instructor is hired.

Mountain View Staff Appreciation

Mountain View staff participated in several fun activities to help support our “Staff Benefit Fund.” These activities are always well-supported and provide an avenue for comradery and stress relief.

February’s events had Valentine’s Day themes. The prizes were dinner and a movie for first prize and a choice of a DVD with a popcorn bucket for second and third prizes. We also held a bake sale. The lobby had a container of candy, in which staff had to guess the number of candies in the container. The winner won the container of candy. We held a silent auction of Godiva chocolates, donated by Laurie Valente.

March’s events had a St. Patrick’s Day theme and an Easter theme. The prize for St. Patrick’s Day was a Geaghan’s gift card. The staff benefit committee also sold chocolate covered pretzels (green and white of course!) made by Penny Ames.

There was a container of jelly beans in the lobby where staff could guess the number of jelly beans and the winner won all of the jelly beans! We also had a cake that was raffled off. The beautiful cake was made and donated by Rosalie Morin’s mother, Jackie. We also raffled two Easter baskets—one for a boy and one for a girl.

We took a break in April so that we can prepare for May and “Correctional Employees Appreciation Week!”

SMRC Thompson’s 60-Day Fitness Challenge

May 1st started the 9th consecutive 60-day fitness challenge dating back to when the program launched in 2014. The 60-day fitness challenge is a program offered at the Southern Maine Re-entry Center (SMRC) designed by CO Robert Thompson and facilitated by a different resident each class. The program offers many positive benefits where residents who join learn to set fitness goals, set routines, make healthy eating choices, use fitness as a tool for recovery, and many other benefits.

The Hard Working Charleston Work Crews

For the last couple months a crew of inmates led by Correctional Trades Instructor (CTI) and Acting Industries Supervisor Dan Dugan has been working at the Central Hall Community Center in Dover-Foxcroft. To date they have hung, taped and sanded over 700 sheets of sheetrock and are still going. This project is an unimaginable undertaking saving the local tax payers thousands of dollars. (See photos below.)

CCF has also received a commitment from Special Olympics to do their set-up and take-down much like we do for the Folk Festival in Bangor every year.

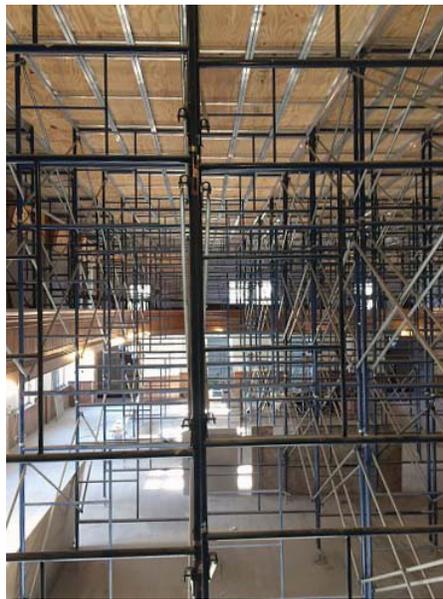

With the arrival of spring also comes clean-up. Work crews have been cleaning up along the highway with DOT. CTIs Leon Gerry, Tom Hayden, and Corey Hill have been taking crews to Lily Bay and Peaks Kenney State Parks. The crews are getting the parks ready for visitors by cleaning up grounds, setting up firewood, and general maintenance.

Another large project CCF is involved with is the Good Shepherd Food Bank. Inmate crews have been helping with picking and packing food for distribution. The CCF crew picked and packaged 99,000 lbs. of food in one day—an amazing amount of work!

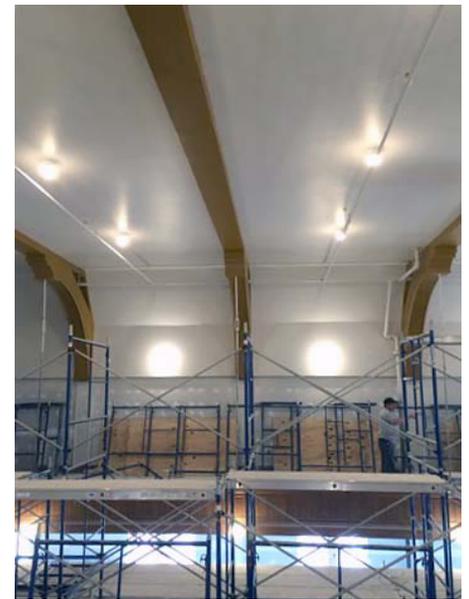

This is shaping up to be a very productive season and it will be exciting to see how much gets accomplished and how many different projects the CCF work crews are involved with.

An Overview of Charleston Correctional Facility's Wood Harvest Vocational Program

By Vocational Trades Instructor Joel Burdin

I would like to bring to light one of the best kept secrets in the Department of Corrections. There has been a vocational program at Charleston Correctional Facility (CCF) that has 419 graduates, to date, and has saved taxpayers millions of dollars on fuel costs. It was started in 1981 by Mel Ames from Atkinson, who has been a logger, forester, teacher, and at age 88 still owns and operates a registered tree farm. Mel worked at CCF for 12 years and sat on the County Commissioners seat for Piscataquis County.

This program is competency based and follows a Certified Logging Professional (CLP) curriculum. The goal is for trainees to learn and safely use wood harvest techniques, and possibly use these learned skills in an employment or personal situation. Elements of the program include: tree identification, chain saw starting techniques, body mechanics, filing, reactive forces, bore cutting, wedging, notching, segments, limbing and bucking techniques, management of spring poles, information pre and post felling, and the parts of a saw chain. The Sustainable Forestry Initiative (SFI) with Best Management Practices (BMP) give trainees the tools to be good stewards of the land. For the more advanced trainee, we have a log utilization class.

The CCF Wood Harvest Program requires a twelve to sixteen week commitment from each trainee. Before trainees are allowed to work on-site, they must complete a twenty-four hour classroom and a one-on-one training session with the Vocational Trades Instructor. Understanding logging safety practices is a primary focus of the initial training phase. Building a good foundation of safety and knowledge is imperative at this stage of the process. Additionally, each trainee is also given an initial entrance assessment, is repeated after six weeks, and again as a final assessment to record the student's overall progress and advancement.

After the basic introductory training period, trainees are then moved to the Inland Fisheries Wildlife Management Area, managed by the Bureau of Lands, where they participate in the daily hands-on

CCF Staff Updates

Charleston Correctional Facility (CCF) welcomes new Correctional Care and Treatment Worker (CCTW) Niki Fortier. She transferred from Mountain View to fill a critical vacancy. Niki has been a wonderful addition to CCF and we are happy to have her here.

We also bid a farewell to Correctional Officer John Dalzell who transferred to Maine State Prison to be a CCTW. There is no doubt he will do well and we wish him the best of luck.

Sergeants Pat Lockhart and Brian Sirois recently attended a three-day conference in Massachusetts for the Crisis Negotiation Team (CNT). They were able to network with other teams from around New England, gain from their knowledge and experiences and bring that back to Maine.

While on duty with Veazie PD, Correctional Sergeant Brian Sirois responded to a call for assistance from Brewer PD. They were handling a stand-off situation with an armed individual. Brain employed his negotiator skills and was instrumental in bringing a very volatile situation to a peaceful end. Congratulations Brian!

demonstration and learning phase. Here, they are under the direct supervision and mentoring of a trained CCF Correctional Trades Instructor or, better yet, Career and Trades Instructor. New trainees are often paired with more experienced students who provide peer tutoring during the training period.

An additional part of the course involves the trainee participating in community service projects and dealing with the public. Students use their skills to help out with local town projects, such as, road side clearing and brushing work. This is a tremendous cost savings to the towns of $400 per day and students are able to give back to society. The time is counted as restitution hours for the facility, and there has been as many as 4,000 hours logged in a year just from this program.

By completing the course, students will have learned valued skills and worked in a real life occupation. They will have worked with others in a team situation—relying on themselves and others to help solve problems—and gotten a sense of what it takes to be successful in the logging industry. Some of the life skills learned include: taking pride in one's appearance, using appropriate language, and the ability to take a compliment and/or criticism from peers and instructors. Results in the past have been 12 to 18 graduates per year, with 95% going to CCF Work Release, and 25% finding jobs related to this industry.

Some interesting statistics of the program include: firewood production, log sales, veneer sales, and log buying for the Industries program. Firewood production for the facility for the year 2015 came to 1,349 cords and when converted to oil dollars, creates a savings of $404,787. The tree length firewood is processed into 4-foot lengths and then split, piled, and burnt by the Steam Plant inmate crew supplying heat and hot water to the facility. This also gets up to 18 different inmates out of the dorms per day. Log and veneer sales yielded $50,784 for the wood harvest account. This account pays for the stumpage to the landowner, safety equipment, chainsaws, repairs for machinery, client payroll, and other expenses accrued by the program. We support the sawmill operation under the Industries program by supplying them with logs from our operation and from private vendors. This provides up to 12 more inmates a job.

The most amazing fact is the number of relationships established with the many entities that this program, has benefited from and towards. Inland Fisheries and Wildlife (IFW) has many wildlife projects that we execute with the students, Bureau of Lands manages the IFW management area with two foresters that confer with the students about the objectives of land management; Department of Corrections; Department of Transportation; snowmobile clubs, surrounding towns, local log mills who give tours and lectures in proper log preparation, the CLP program and others.

The training and the experience the students gain from this program enable them to think before acting, rather than thinking for the moment. They gain the realization that the work week is actually five days, the pride and satisfaction of reaching real life personal goals, and knowing that appearance and proper language will give them more career opportunities. The relationships with the surrounding towns may give the students the ability to give back to communities but also gives the towns a very low cost alternative to upgrade their roads and ditches. This reflects back to Charleston Correctional Facility as a positive influence to the people they serve, the taxpayer.

To wrap this up, Charleston Correctional has much to offer its population and surrounding communities. While this is one program with its light turned on, there are other programs that will be brought forward into the light in the future. Thank you, Mel Ames.

Public Restitution Work

Spring has sprung and so have our work crews. DCF is booking jobs for our crews left and right. There's even a wait list as our work crews are in high demand. They do their best to meet the needs of the community and continue to perform quality work. Here are some of the projects they have been working busily on:

-Correctional Trades Instructor (CTI) Toby Sawtelle and his inmate crew finished the interior renovation of the historical Station 98 Railroad Depot car in Machias for the Machias Bay Area Chamber of Commerce. On April 4th, the Downeast Correctional Facility (DCF) had their first PREA (Prison Rape Elimination Act) audit. DCF passed all 194 mandatory PREA standards. If you fail one standard in PREA, the facility fails the audit. A certificate was presented to the DCF staff at the May correctional administrators meeting (see page 5). Like all audits, becoming compliant involves months of prep work by a lot of staff. Be sure to offer the staff your congratulations on their achievement.

New 14-week Program on Reasoning and Rehabilitation Unfolds Statewide

Region 1-A was pleased to welcome Probation and Parole Officer (PPO) Joyce Williams and Carol Corothers as our guest speakers for our monthly staff meeting in April. Their topic was Reasoning and Rehabilitation, a proven program of offender rethinking and choosing a new direction in life. The overall goal of the program is the reduction of recidivism which will hopefully assist in prison and jail overcrowding. A concerted effort is now being made to get more facilitators on board and have this program up and functioning statewide. In R1-A Johanna Rozzi, Steve Onacki and Trisha Ledoux are being trained to become facilitators in the southern Maine area (see page 13).

included on the day's agenda. PPO Trisha LeDoux and PPO Kim Snead-Blake were on hand from Region 1-A Probation describing many of the different aspects of their chosen profession. Their presentation provided an overview of probation officer responsibilities, how they deal with the needs of the different probationers and other duties encountered on a daily basis. The young faces looking on seem to take it all in with great enthusiasm.

Joining Forces

Once again the York County courts and York County probation office will be combining their experience and expertise in the supervision of drug court clients.

PPO Roxann Parker from the Biddeford office will be providing increased supervision for these clients and this is a major step forward in reinforcing accountability in their journey to healing and being drug free. The road to recovery can have many bumps along the way but having someone to talk to and render words of encouragement can be a major plus in the process. No one ever said that being drug free would be easy but it is certainly well worth it in the end.

Adult Community Corrections • Region 2

By Susan Gagnon, RCA

Welcome to the Region

Steven Howe has recently accepted the position of Probation Officer Assistant (POA) for the Lewiston office. He comes to us from Long Creek Youth Development Center and is a welcome addition to the office.

POA Steven Howe.

Michelle Urbanek has come back to our Region, after a brief stay in Region 3. She will be based out of the Augusta office as a Probation Officer. Having been recently promoted from Probation Officer Assistant, we are happy to have her back.

Making a Difference

Probation Officer's Michelle Dubay and Nicole Lenda were recently working in the field conducting house checks in Lewiston. It was during one of their house checks that they encountered two people who appeared to be under the influence of substances. EMS was called to check on their wellbeing and NARCAN needed to be administered to both of them. If it was not for POs Lenda and Dubay, the two individuals would have died. Both officers were commended for their dedication and work (see page 6).

Congratulations and Thanks!

The Adult Community Corrections Academy recently held its graduation at the Maine Criminal Justice Academy. Members of the class included Probation Officers (PO) Kurt Dyer (R3), Chad Cooper (R3), Chris Donahue (R3) and Probation Officer Assistants (POA) Jaime Lepizzera (R1) and Renee Knapp (R3). Many thanks to all of the Field Training Instructors (FTO), Instructors, Regional Correctional Managers and others who dedicate their time to ensure the new staff have the foundation to start their careers with the Department of Corrections. It is because of these individuals, Adult Community Corrections has such an advanced training academy and could not be done without them. Congratulations to all of the new staff and kudos for a job well done!

Here We Grow Again!

The Skowhegan Probation Office is working on the 2016 Plant a Seed Garden. The brainchild of Probation Officer Craig Ladd and Probation Officer Assistant Cameron Dufour, this will be the second year of the garden. All members of the Skowhegan office assist in this worthwhile project and has turned into a community project with area businesses and agencies donating in support.

Located behind their office is a garden that serves many purposes. It is used as a graduated sanction, promotes responsibility, discipline, self-giving and how to effectively work on a project as part of a team. The program teaches important skills that can be used in future employment, education and self-growth. In doing the research of the program, it was determined that the garden would lower the risk level by addressing six out of the 10 LSI domains (Leisure, Education/Employment, Emotional, Financial, Attitudes, and Family).

The garden supplies fresh produce to numerous local food pantries and needy families in the Somerset and Kennebec County areas. The Skowhegan office will be planting over the next few weeks and would welcome visitors over the summer to see the progress of the garden.

based Outcomes, Co-Occurring Disorders and Treatment, as well as a powerful presentation regarding the detection of Early-Psychosis. Staff associated with THRIVE and Hornby-Zellar presented data with preliminary findings from Maine's Expand ME Initiative that evaluated the Effectiveness of Co-Located Peer Support in Juvenile Services. THRIVE currently receives funding from Maine's Department of Corrections Juvenile Services, and provides a trauma informed system of care to social service agencies throughout the State.

Photography at the A.R. Gould School

By Peter Johansson

In the fall of 2014 Peter Johansson, a teacher with the A.R. Gould School, began photographing soccer games at the facility which sparked an interest amongst the students in the school. During the 2014-2015 basketball season students began to ask him to photograph games in the gym; however the old equipment was not adequate to properly capture fast action in low light. Thus in the spring of 2015 Peter offered to teach a photography class, and using school funds purchased a new Nikon Digital SLR camera and lenses able to capture sports activity in less than ideal lighting conditions.

During the summer of 2015 Peter taught the photography course at the school, with an understanding that the students would be able and willing to cover facility events using the new equipment. Students began the course using a 35 mm film SLR camera. They also used a hand held light meter in order to set aperture, and shutter speed for proper exposure. Once the entire roll of film was exposed, the students developed it themselves, and made digital files by scanning the film on a flatbed scanner. The reason for beginning with old equipment is so that students gain a true understanding of aperture, shutter speed, ISO, etc.

After learning how to use the film equipment the students began practicing with the new digital camera. Specific skills focused on framing, focus tracking, and how to use different mode settings for different situations. Students downloaded all the files onto a laptop computer, and used Photoshop to edit the photos. Photo-editing included cropping, adjustment of color curves, resizing, and adjustment of lighting.

Students had the opportunity to practice their new photography skills documenting classes and events at A.R. Gould School.

Working Together

Sarah Mattox from Restorative Justice presented at the Region 2-J staff meeting in April. Per Sarah, “In December of 2015, the DOC awarded the Restorative Justice Project (RJP) a contract to introduce restorative practices at the Long Creek Youth Development Center (LCYDC). This contract has a two-tiered focus: offering a 20-hour introduction to restorative justice for all phase three youth and building a statewide restorative reentry network. During phase four, youth will work with their social worker, RJP liaison and reintegration specialist in clarifying their own reentry goals, reaching out natural and logical supports in the community where they’ll be living, and planning for their own reentry circles. These reentry circles will take place just pre-release or shortly post-release, depending on where the youth is returning to in the state. In support of this effort, 130 LCYDC staff have participated in a two-hour orientation to restorative processes, as part of this new ‘Stay Free’ initiative. This program involves creating community support through RJP for juveniles when they are released.”

JCCOs will be offered the ability to be trained in facilitating restorative reentry circles in their areas. This will be an opportunity for DOC and RJP to work together to increase support in the community for juveniles being released from Long Creek, with a goal to reduce recidivism and encourage successful reintegration.

New JCCO in Ellsworth Office

Troy Varney began JCCO training on April 11th and will assume JCCO responsibilities covering areas in Hancock and Waldo County, and based in Ellsworth. I believe most of you know Troy either from his time as Catholic Charities Maine Juvenile Detention Alternative Program Coordinator or in his most recent capacity as Director of Quality Assurance for Department of Corrections.

Troy began working for DOC in 2007 as a Contract Service Manager and over the past nine years commuted to Augusta diligently working as leader and change agent in many initiatives that will have long lasting and positive impact on adult and juvenile corrections, in both field and facility. Some of Troy’s significant accomplishments over the span of his career includes the implementation and expansion of high fidelity wraparound, oversaw the development and adoption of Performance-based Standards in adult correctional facilities, and has worked tirelessly to ensure Juvenile Field Services receives a full continuum of evidenced-based practices and services. Previous to his contracted work with MDOC through Catholic Charities, Troy worked in Penobscot County as a case manager for five years and taught at Ellsworth High School.

I am delighted to welcome Troy to this region. His wealth of knowledge, experience, understanding of evidenced-based practices, collaborative skills, positive attitude, resiliency, and strong commitment to MDOC are some of the attributes and skills he brings to this region and the youth and families we serve.

Proclamation 5187

National Correctional Officers Week

May 5, 1984

Correctional officers have the difficult and often dangerous assignment of ensuring the custody, safety and well-being of the over 600,000 inmates in our Nation's prisons and jails. Their position is essential to the day-to-day operations of these institutions; without them it would be impossible to achieve the foremost institutional goals of security and control.

Historically, correctional officers have been viewed as "guards," occupying isolated and misunderstood positions in prisons and jails. In recent years, the duties of these officers have become increasingly complex and demanding. They are called upon to fill, simultaneously, custodial, supervisory and counseling roles. The professionalism, dedication and courage exhibited by these officers throughout the performance of these demanding and often conflicting roles deserve our utmost respect. The important work of correctional Officers often does not receive the recognition from the public it deserves. It is appropriate that we honor the many contributions and accomplishments of these men and women who are a vital component of the field of corrections.

In recognition of the contributions of correctional officers to our Nation, the Congress, by Senate Joint Resolution 132, has designated the week beginning May 6, 1984, as "National Correctional Officers Week," and authorized and requested the President to issue an appropriate proclamation.

Now, Therefore, I, Ronald Reagan, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week beginning May 6, 1984, as National Correctional Officers Week. I call upon officials of State and local governments and the people of the United States to observe this week with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this fifth day of May, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eightyfour, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and eighth.
