

WAR AND RECONCILIATION

FROM CHILD SOLDIERS TO COMMUNITY HEALERS

2009 Douglas M. Schair Memorial Lecture on Genocide and Human Rights

ISHMAEL BEAH

author of A Long Way Gone, former child soldier in Sierra Leone

April 14, 7-9 p.m.

Hannaford Lecture Hall
Abromson Community Education Center,
University of Southern Maine, Portland

with

FAMBUL TOK (FAMILY TALK)

a film by Catalyst for Peace about reconciliation efforts in Sierra Leone in honor of the United Nations Year of Reconciliation

Candle Lighting for Generations of Genocide

Free and open to the public

Book signing after the lecture

Convenient parking in attached garage, limited seating.
ASL interpreter provided.

For information and access inquiries call 780-5331, TTY 780-5646.

Simulcast to Jewett Auditorium, University of Maine at Augusta

“To end genocide, we must first end indifference.”

—Douglas M. Schair

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN MAINE

Sponsored by the Hudson Foundation in memory of Douglas M. Schair and by the Academic Council for Religion, Genocide, and Human Rights with Catalyst for Peace; Verrill Dana LLP; Marcus, Clegg and Mistretta, PA; United Way of Greater Portland; The Law Offices of Joe Bornstein

Osher Lifelong Learning Institute; Armenian Cultural Association of Maine; USM Political Science Department; State of Maine Office of Multicultural Affairs; USM Office of the President; Episcopal Diocese of Maine; Kaleidoscope LLC; City of Portland; United Nations Association—Maine; USM Libraries; The Center for Global Humanities, University of New England; Department of English and Language Studies, University of New England; Holocaust Human Rights Center of Maine; USM Interfaith Chaplaincy; World Affairs Council of Maine; University of Maine School of Law; USM Office of University Outreach; NAACP Portland Branch; USM Bookstores; USM History Department; Maine Council of Churches

Special thanks to the Douglas M. Schair Lecture Committee; the Portland Harbor Hotel; gBritt PR; University of Maine at Augusta; and the Sampson Center for Diversity at USM