There is lots of stuff that could be defined in some peoples eyes as musical instruments. One example is putting a rubber band around a plastic container. When you pull back on the rubber band and let it go it makes a pluck, pluck, pluck sound. It could very easily keep a slow or medium rythm. The sound is almost like guitar slowly picking the same note. I expect that if you pull the rubber band back different lengths it will make higher and lower sounds. My instrument could be used at the start of songs to set a rythm or tone. It also could help a youngster learn how to play to a rythm. It's amazing how many things you could actually use to make different musical instruments.

11

Some other objects that could be used as instruments is your body. You could use your hands to clap, your mouth to sing or whistle, and your feet to stomp or tap. You could also use have hold objects like a pan an fork, you would bang or tap the fork on the pan. You could also use little things like staplers, you would staple something then make another noise, maybe like singing. I know you could use everything as an instrument, because mostly everything makes a sound.

11

A key chain full of keys can be a musical instrument. If you shake them to the beat they sound good. You could use them like a Maraca. Who knows, someday they can be used in a perfecional orcestra for background music.

⓫

Pots and pans, wooden sticks. You could bang the stiks on the pots and pans. You could bang the pots and pans together.

11

I the army people use drums to keep the marching steady. With the drums nobody fell behind. The drums were also used to keep the men's spirt up. People use instruments for lots of things.

And Willy was mad at himself because he did not look back behind him in the race and now Stone Fox was catching up on him. He felt like he couldn't win the race because he only had one dog Searchlight and Stone Fox had five dogs.

14 The characters in my story are, N____, O____, Mommy, Daddy and I.

15 The probler in my story is we ran out of bread and the seagulls kept coming back every morning skwaking at us for bread.

16 The problem in my story is solved when we get a small loaf of bread a give them less.

⓱

My family and I went on a vacation to Long Island Maine. We rented a house with it's own little beach. My brothers went fishing there, while I looked for sand Dollars and sat on the rocky ledge.

One of our favorite things to do there was giving the seagulls pieces of bread. One time my oldest brother, M_____, put a large piece of bread in his hand. He held his hand up and a seagull swooped down and grabbed the bread from him.

We all tried this new tronique. a bird landed on Daddy's arm and grabbed the bread and flew off. There was one bird that had a black head. It seemed to like Mommy.

I on the other hand didn't have any luck. One bird would get close to me then fly away. Another would completly stay away from me, and all the others swarmed my second oldest brother U_____.

Every morning as soon as we woke up we did this. But one morning we ran out of bread because Daddy was making French toast.

Mommy went to the store to get more bread but the store only had pumpernickle, and we don't like that kind.

I guess the seagulls had to skip a day, but they didn't seem to mind. They didn't mind at all until the next morning. The seagulls came early and skreaked and squaked. They woke up the whole family!

Finally Mommy went to the store and bought a small loaf of bread. We fed the birds a little so we could have some for the next day. We started giving them less and less, so we wouldn't spend so much money on bread.

One day we gave them no bread at all. They flew off peacefully and didn't come back.

14 The characters in this story are Diana, Josh, and John.

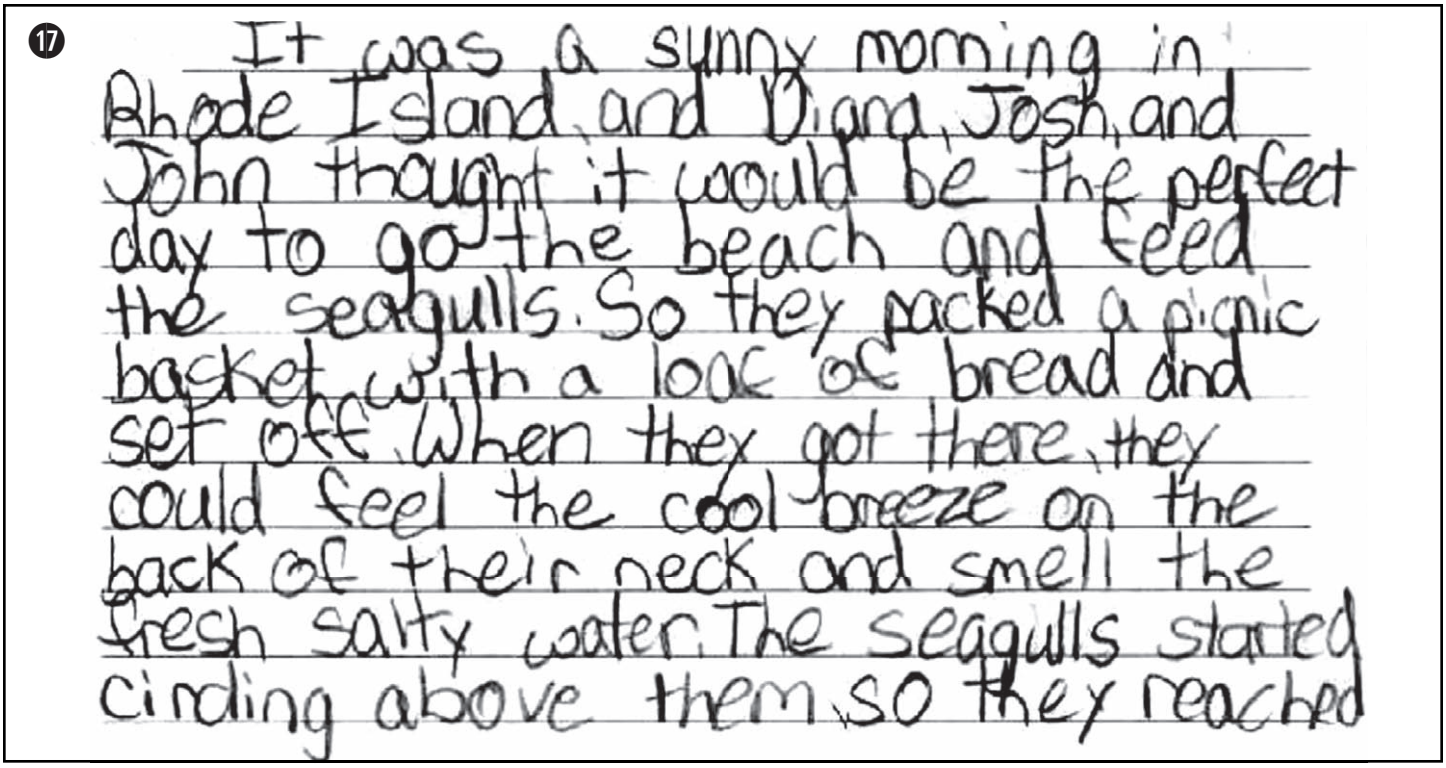
15

The problem is that Diana, Josh, and John have food for the seagls, but the seagles flew away so they couldn't give it to them.

16

It is solved because they start giving the food to the crabs and the seagles get jealus.

⓱



It was a sunny morning in Rhode Island and Diana, Josh, and John thought it would be the perfect day to go the beach and feed the seagulls. So they packed a picnic basket with a loaf of bread and set off. When they got there, they could feel the cool breeze on the back of their neck and smell the fresh salty water. The seagulls started circling above them, so they reached into the basket and held out a piece of bread to the seagulls. The seagulls were frightened by this, so they flew off. Diana, Josh, and John were very bummed by this, because the reason they had gone there was to feed the seagulls, and now the seagulls were gone. Right as they were about to walk away discouraged, they heard a strange noise and then a "MINE MINE!" They turned around and right in front of them was a whole bunch of crabs. "MINE MINE!" they said. Diana, Josh, and John held out the bread, and the crabs snapped their claws out and started eating. Diana, Josh, and John were overjoyed, and forgot all about the seagulls. But, the seagulls saw this and got jealous, so they flew over to Diana, Josh, John, and the crabs and said "MINE MINE!" Diana, Josh, and John were so happy they were almost dancing.

The crabs and seagulls shared the bread and they all lived happily ever after.

14 Billy, Bob, and Jakie are at the ocean watching seagulls

15

Other birds are taking the seagull eggs from their nests.

16 Billy, Bob, and Jakie take the eggs and barry them in the sand

One day Billy, Bob, and Jakie went to the ocean to watch seagulls lay their eggs and go catch fish to eat. But while the seagulls were gone other flocks of birds were stealing the eggs from their nests. It took a long time to find the eggs that were stolen but they did not give up looking for them. Billy, Bob, and Jakie finally found them. They had a great idea. They were going to barry them so that the other birds would not find them. If the other birds found them then Billy, Bob, and Jakie would scare the birds away while they waited until the seagulls come back for their eggs. Billy, Bob, and Jakie had a good time watching the seagulls and protect the eggs. They might do that tomorrow. Billy, Bob, and Jakie went back to the ocean to watch the seagulls again but this time the eggs were hatching and the baby seagulls waited for their parents to come back with some food. They really like seagulls a lot. Billy, Bob, and Jakie went to the ocean every day studying the seagulls and what the do. The baby seagulls really liked them because they would play every time the went to the ocean.

14 The characters are Phil, Chris, and Bill.

15 They are feeding the seagulls, when tons of seagulls started pecking Chris, trying to get some of his bread.

16 It is solved by Phil and Bill throwing a whole loaf in the water and running away.

One day three friends Phil, Chris, and Bill went to the beach to feed the birds. So they hoped into the car and drove to the pier. When the got there, there was a lot of people so they went to the lighthouse. This time when they got there, it was packed! But it was packed with seagulls. So they started to throw bread. Instantly the birds started fighting for some. No matter where the bread was the seagulls would eat it. If it was in the water, on the ground, or out of Phil, Chris, or Bills hands they had to have it like they were addicted to it! Suddenly Phil and Bill heard a scream. Chris was being attacked by seagulls! they were pecking him to get his bread! So Phil and Bill took a loaf of bread and tanted the birds with it, then threw it in the water and ran away. When they got home, Chris had to put ointment on because his body hurt so bad.
