I. Introduction

Youth Employment laws protect minors from working in unsafe or unhealthy conditions. They also ensure that work does not compromise the education of minors. These laws include:

- minimum ages for employment.
- work permits.
- hours of work.
- prohibited occupations.

Employers who employ minors (youths under 18 years old) must ensure that working conditions meet the requirements of all four areas.

This booklet provides general information on Maine youth employment laws (Title 26 M.R.S.A. §§ 701-785). The information in this booklet should not be considered as official statements or interpretations of the law.

Employers can obtain a complete copy of Maine’s youth employment laws from:

Maine Department of Labor
Wage and Hour Division
45 State House Station
Augusta, Maine 04333-0045
207-623-7900 • TTY users call Maine Relay 711
www.maine.gov/labor/labor_laws/publications/minorsguide.html

Businesses may be covered by Maine youth employment laws, federal youth employment laws, or both. When both federal and state laws apply, employers must follow the law that provides the most protection for the minor.

Employers can learn if federal laws cover their businesses and obtain information on federal laws from:

U.S. Department of Labor
Wage and Hour Division

By understanding and complying with the rules governing the employment of minors, employers, teachers, and parents can help ensure teens have safe and positive work experiences.

The Maine Department of Labor can help with information and training on the employment of minors.
II. History of Maine Youth Employment Laws

Maine first passed a child labor law during the industrial revolution when child labor and sweatshops were on the rise. The 1847 law addressed the amount of formal schooling a child must have in order to work. The intent of the legislation was to prevent the exploitation of children and to emphasize the importance of education.

Truancy laws passed in 1887 required children under 15 to attend at least 16 weeks of school in a school year to work in manufacturing and mechanical workplaces.

Social reforms at the turn of the century focused attention on the conditions under which children were working. Maine began inspecting businesses for sanitation, hours of labor, and other conditions harmful to children.

In 1915, the Maine Legislature stipulated that children under 14 could not work during the hours that public schools were in session. The law also required working papers for children 14 to 16 years old.

The 1940s and 1950s saw great technological advances and business expansion. To protect children, the Maine Legislature enacted stricter youth employment laws. Recognizing the value of education to the growing economy, educational requirements for working minors were strengthened.

Changes to youth employment laws and educational attendance requirements passed in 1991 addressed persistent problems of low graduation and high truancy and dropout rates in Maine schools.

The list of occupations prohibited for minors was revised in 2001 and again in 2003 to better protect minors from the hazards they face at work.*

III. Poster

Each employer must display a poster that summarizes youth employment laws.

The poster is available free from the Maine Department of Labor at: www.maine.gov/labor/posters/index.html.

*This law may be updated in 2013. Visit www.maine.gov/labor for updates.
IV. Work Permits

Minors under 16 years old must obtain a work permit before beginning a job. This includes homeschoolers. Minors must get a new permit every time they begin a new job until they reach 16 years old, even if they work for their parents.

In order to apply for a work permit, the minor must be: (1) enrolled in school; (2) not habitually truant or under suspension; and (3) passing a majority of courses during the current grading period. Employers must have a stamped, approved work permit on file before allowing any minor under 16 years old to work.

With the promise of a job, the minor must take proof of age to the office of the superintendent of schools of the district in which they live. Parental permission is required to work.

The superintendent’s office will complete the permit in triplicate and mail the forms and proof of age to the Maine Department of Labor. The department will review the permit to ensure that the minor is of legal age to work at the business and that the occupation is not hazardous. If the permit is in order, the department will validate the forms, keep one copy and return two copies to the superintendent’s office (one copy for the school, one for the employer).*

The minor cannot work until the Department of Labor approves the permit. To prevent delays in starting new employment, the minor should start the process as early as possible.

The Department of Labor issues permits for specific jobs with specific employers. Permits are not transferable to other jobs or employers. A minor under 16 needs a separate work permit for each place he or she works.

A minor can have one active permit during the school year and two during the summer. Upon leaving a job, the minor or the employer should return the employer copy of the permit to the Department of Labor so that it can be deactivated.

*This law may be updated in 2013. Visit www.maine.gov/labor for updates.
Note: During the school year, minors may have only one active work permit at any given time. During summer school vacation, minors may have two active work permits. Permits should not be submitted until minors have the promise of a job. Work permits do not excuse minors from attending school or classes. Falsification of information or documentation will result in permit revocation.

V. School Attendance

Maine compulsory education law requires all students attend school until age 17. The local school board must grant special permission for a minor under 17 years old to drop out of school.

A minor under 16 who has been granted such permission still must have a work permit; hourly and prohibited occupations restrictions also apply.

Hourly restrictions do not apply to 16 or 17-year olds no longer enrolled in school. Occupational restrictions apply to all minors whether or not they are enrolled in school.

Minors under 17 cannot work during the hours that school is in session unless they have the school’s permission for early release from school or they are in an approved program.

VI. Legal Work Hours for Minors

Employers must keep daily time records for minors. The records must show what time the minor began work, total hours worked, and what time the minor finished for the day.

Youth employment laws specify how early, how late and how long minors can work. See next pages for details.

VII. Young Worker Safety

All employers must maintain safe and healthful work environments. The safety of young workers remains a priority of the Maine Department of Labor, especially as statistics on workplace injuries demonstrate that most disabling injuries occur within the first year on the job.

Employers must train all employees about the hazards of their jobs and how to do those jobs safely. To learn how to provide adequate and effective training, especially for new employees, please contact SafetyWorks! at 1-877-723-3345 or www.safetyworksmaine.com.
A. Minors under 16-years-old

Work Hours
- Between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. during the school year.
- Between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. during summer vacations only.
- Not during school hours.

Maximum Hours
- 3 hours a day on school days, including Fridays.
- 18 hours in any week during a school week.
- 40 hours in a week with no school.
- 8 hours on days without school (during weekends, holidays, vacations, storm days, etc.)
- No more than 6 days in a row.

B. 16- and 17-Year-Olds (enrolled in school, including home school)

The Maine law that limits hours for 16- and 17-year-old workers includes several exceptions. Federal law does not limit work hours for 16- and 17-year olds.

Work Hours
- Not before 7 a.m. on a school day.
- Not before 5 a.m. on a nonschool day.
- Not after 10:15 p.m. the night before a school day.
- Not after midnight if there is no school the next day.
- Minors under 17 cannot work during school hours.

Maximum Hours
- 6 hours a day on a school day; 8 hours a day on the last school day of the week.
- 24 hours a week in any week with 3 or more school days.
- 50 hours a week each week with less than 3 scheduled school days, or during the first or last week of the school year.
- 10 hours a day on a non-school day.
- No more than 6 days in a row.
Exceptions

Students enrolled in an approved alternative education plan or an approved cooperative/vocational education program can work the daily or weekly hours required for the program without having those hours count toward the regular maximums allowed. For example, a 17-year-old student could work 15 hours under a cooperative/vocational education plan plus the 24 hours that the law would normally allow for a student under 18 years old.

The following are exempt from all the state hourly restrictions:

1. A minor employed in the planting, cultivating or harvesting of fieldcrops or other agricultural employment not in direct contact with hazardous machinery or substances. (Federal youth employment laws for agriculture are different. See Section X. Federal Prohibited Occupations.)

2. A minor working as an employed or in-training actor;

3. A minor working at a children’s camp;

4. A minor who is legally emancipated.

5. Minors employed in fishing occupations or in the operation of ferries or excursion boats are exempt from the weekly and hourly restrictions only while school is not in session.
Maine laws state at what age minors may work in specific industries. Minimum ages under federal law are different. Contact the U.S. Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division in New Hampshire at 603-666-7716 for details.

Minors who are 16 or 17: May work in nonhazardous jobs in manufacturing establishments, bakeries, laundries, dry-cleaning establishments, and garages. Minors may also work in hotels, motels, commercial places of amusement, including skating rinks, circuses, arcades, bowling alleys, pool halls, and in all industries allowed for younger minors.

Minors who are 15: May work in nonhazardous jobs in dining rooms, kitchens, lobbies and offices of hotels and motels, but they are prohibited from performing room service, making deliveries to the hotel rooms, or entering the hallways to those rooms.

Minors who are 14: May work in nonhazardous jobs in restaurants (if not on the premises of a hotel/motel), in sporting and overnight camps, stores, filling stations, ice cream stands, and laundromats. They also may work at outside occupations on the grounds of a hotel or motel, but not if the minor must stay away from home overnight.*

Minors who are under 14: There is no minimum age under Maine law to work in nonhazardous jobs in children’s camps, hospitals, nursing homes, municipalities, domestic work in or about a private home, or in the planting, cultivating, or harvesting of field crops in agriculture. (Federal law does not allow minors under 14 to work in businesses under their jurisdiction.)

*Non-hazardous jobs are those not stipulated under state prohibited occupations. Minors of any age may work for their parents in non-hazardous jobs in non-mechanical and non-manufacturing settings in retail or service industries (excluding hotels and motels) if the business is directly owned by one or both parents. Work permit requirements, hours of work, and prohibited occupations apply to minors even if they work for their parents.

Federal laws may not allow parental exceptions. Contact the U.S. Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division at 603-666-7716 for details.

This law may be updated in 2013. Visit www.main.gov/labor for updates.

X. Federal Prohibited Occupations

A. Prohibited Occupations

Under the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), 17 Hazardous Orders in Nonagricultural Occupations prohibit the employment of youth under 18 in certain occupations in certain businesses.

Maine-prohibited occupations include most of the federal-prohibited occupations, as well as several prohibitions not covered by federal law. Federal law prohibits youth under 18 from only a few occupations which Maine law does not prohibit, such as:

- Logging and sawmilling.
- Exposure to radioactive substances (prohibited in Maine under 16 years old).
- Operating power-driven bakery machines (prohibited in Maine under 16 years old).

Employers who employ minors and are engaged in these activities should contact the U.S. Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division at 603-666-7716.

B. Farm Labor

A Federal Hazardous Order sets occupational restrictions for agricultural workers under 16 years old employed in the production of goods for interstate commerce. The order lists 16 prohibited occupations, including working with certain power-driven farm machinery, operating a tractor with over 20 PTO (power-take-off) horsepower and working with explosives or certain chemicals. Request “Child Labor in Agriculture” from the U.S. Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division at 603-666-7716.

The prohibitions on youth employment on farms do not apply to minors employed on a farm owned or operated by their parents or to students in a recognized vocational education training program. In addition, exemptions are provided for 4-H members who have completed designated training programs and participants in other approved farm training and education programs.
C. Federal Contracts

In addition to the other prohibited occupations, youth under 16 may not be employed in the manufacture or furnishing of any article included in a U.S. government contract in excess of $10,000 (Federal Public Contracts Act).

XI. Special Occupations

A. Child actors—Maine has no minimum age and no hourly restrictions for child actors, but they must have work permits if under the age of 16.

B. Agriculture—No work permit is required for field agricultural work. No minimum age, hourly restrictions, or prohibited occupations apply in field occupations involving the planting, cultivating, or harvesting of field crops under Maine law.

XII. Volunteers

Individuals may volunteer under certain conditions:

• A volunteer cannot displace regularly paid employees doing the same tasks.

• The work must be for charitable, religious, or humanitarian purposes.

• The volunteering must be done in nonprofit organizations only.

Minimum age and prohibited occupations rules apply whether the worker is paid or volunteers. Minors do not need work permits for volunteer work.

Hours limitations do not apply to volunteer work; however, the Maine Department of Labor recommends that minors who volunteer be kept to the same hours limitations as minors who work for pay.

XIII. Internships

Interns in the “for profit” sector typically must be paid at least minimum wage and overtime. The more an internship program is structured around classroom or academic oversight the more likely the internship would be viewed as an employment relationship.
XIV. School-Based Learning Programs

Cooperative education programs ("Co-op") are considered employment situations. Students are placed in businesses. A school coordinator evaluates and grades them on pre-assigned job duties and training tasks. The employer must pay students at least the minimum wage and comply with all applicable state and federal laws.

Under Maine law, the hours worked in these types of programs are not counted against the hours restrictions set for youth under the age of 18. Federal laws are more restrictive for minors under the age of 16, regardless of school programs.

XV. Employer/Employee Relationships

In most instances, an employment relationship exists when a person is allowed to perform work. Maine labor law defines “employ” as “to suffer or permit to work.” Where there is an employment relationship, the employer falls under several state and federal laws, including minimum wage, workers’ compensation, unemployment taxes, and payroll deductions for state and federal taxes.

XVI. Enforcement of Maine Youth Employment Laws

The Maine Department of Labor enforces state youth employment laws. Violations of youth employment laws are serious. Any violation of a youth employment law is a civil violation subject to fines that range from $250 to $50,000 per incident.

It is illegal for an employer to fire, threaten, retaliate against, or otherwise discriminate against an employee for reporting a suspected youth employment violation to the Department of Labor. Complaints may be filed with the Maine Human Rights Commission at 207-624-6290.

Anyone can report a suspected youth employment violation in writing to the Maine Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division or the U.S. Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division. See Section XXIII: Resources for agency contact information.
XVII. Comparison of Maine and Federal Youth Employment Laws

When there is a difference between state and federal law regarding the employment of minors, the law that provides the most protection to the minor takes precedence. In most cases, Maine youth employment laws provide more protection than federal law. Several situations where federal law is more protective than Maine law are noted in this guide. The U.S. Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division can provide details of federal law.

XVIII. Minimum Wage, Overtime, Recordkeeping and Other Labor Laws

• Effective October 1, 2009, minimum wage is $7.50.
• Maine does not have a training or student wage below the minimum.
• Tipped employees must be paid at least one-half the minimum wage. If this rate plus tips for the week do not average the minimum wage, the employer must pay the difference.
• Each employee must receive a pay statement with each payment of wages showing the date of the pay period, hours worked, total wages paid, and itemized deductions.
• Employees get overtime pay of 1 1/2 times their hourly rate after 40 hours of work per week. This applies to most employees. A poster stating these rules must be shown in the workplace.
• Employers must keep daily time records for minors. The records must show what time the minor began work, total hours worked, total wages paid, and itemized deductions.
• Employees must be offered a 30-minute break after every six hours worked, except in cases of emergency (Title 26, chapter 7, §601)
• Employers must pay wages to employees on an established day or date at regular intervals of no more than 16 days.
• Employees must be paid for the work performed. Employees who leave a job must be paid in full within a reasonable time.
• Employers cannot deduct from an employee’s pay for things such as broken merchandise or bills not paid by customers.
• Employers must give an employee one-day notice to lower the employee’s rate of pay.
• Maine is an “at will” state. An employee may be fired for any reason not prohibited by law unless he or she is covered by a collective bargaining agreement or other contract that limits firing.
• Employers may not discriminate on the basis of gender by paying a rate less than the rate paid an employee of the opposite sex for comparable work.
• “Cash under the table” is not legal.
• Most of the wage laws do not apply to agriculture.
• An employer who violates employment laws may have to pay penalties, additional wages, and lawyers’ fees.

XIX. Discrimination and Harassment

A. Unlawful Discrimination

Employers must not discriminate against workers because of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, or mental or physical disability.

B. Workers with Disabilities

The Federal Americans with Disabilities Act and the Maine Human Rights Act protect workers who have disabilities. Employers may not discriminate against workers with disabilities in hiring or firing. Employers must make reasonable accommodations for such workers’ disabilities.

C. Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment on the job is against the law. Retaliation for complaining about sexual harassment is also against the law.

D. Whistleblower Protection

It is against the law for an employer to fire, threaten, retaliate, or discriminate against an employee for:

• Reporting a law violation.
• Reporting a risk to health or safety.
• Refusing to do something that was life-threatening, after asking the employer to correct the problem.
• Being part of a government investigation.
• Reporting a medical error if you are a healthcare worker.

The law applies only if the employee tells the employer about the problem and allows time for it to be fixed or if the employee has good reason to believe the employer will not correct the problem.
XX. Unemployment and Workers’ Compensation Insurance

Unemployment insurance law provides for payment of benefits to qualified workers during periods of unemployment regardless of age.

Workers’ compensation insurance gives benefits to workers who get hurt on the job regardless of age.

XXI. Drug Testing

Employers can ask workers to take drug tests if federal law requires it or if the company has a drug policy approved by the Maine Department of Labor.

Under the law, an employer can use a positive test result to:

• Refuse to hire someone.
• Fire an employee.
• Discipline an employee.
• Change an employee’s work.

Those who apply for jobs may be tested only if they are offered work or are placed on a waiting list for a job. Employers who test under the law must give those tested a copy of the policy prior to the test.

XXII. Compliance Assistance

The Maine Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division helps employers comply with youth employment laws.

The Maine Department of Labor SafetyWorks! program helps employers comply with occupational safety and health regulations.

Safeteen, a program of the Maine Department of Labor, provides training for minors, employers, and educators on workplace safety and health and youth employment laws.

See Section XXIV: Resources for agency contact information.
XXIII. Frequently Asked Questions about Youth Employment Laws

Q. Can a 16- or 17-year old who has quit school work more than six hours per day or 24 hours per week?

A. If the 16-year-old minor has been allowed to drop out of school, the hourly restrictions no longer apply. If a 17-year-old minor is no longer enrolled in school, the hourly restrictions no longer apply. The employer should obtain a letter from the superintendent of schools stating that the child is no longer enrolled in school and, if under 17, that he or she has been waived from compulsory education laws.

Q. If a 16- or 17-year-old minor is working toward a high school equivalency diploma, are his or her working hours restricted when school is in session?

A. If the minor has dropped out of the traditional school setting and is no longer “enrolled,” the hourly restrictions no longer apply. Again, the employer should get written confirmation from the superintendent that the minor has been allowed to drop out of school.

Q. Do child labor laws apply to 18-year-olds who are still in high school?

A. No. Once a minor turns 18, none of the youth employment laws apply, even if the person is still a student.

Q. Are the youth employment laws any different if you are hiring your own son or daughter?

A. Work permit requirements, hours limitations, and prohibited occupations rules apply even when hiring family members.

Q. Do OSHA regulations apply to minors?

A. Yes. OSHA regulations apply to workers regardless of age.

Q. If an employer complies with Maine law, does that guarantee compliance with Federal law, or vice versa?

A. Not in all cases. The law that is most restrictive and protects the employee the most is the one that applies.

Q. Can 14- or 15-year-olds have more than one job?

A. 14- and 15-year-olds need work permits in order to work. They are allowed one work permit during the school year and two in the summer.
Q. If a 14- or 15-year old changes jobs, does he or she need a new work permit?

A. Yes. A work permit is valid only for the occupation and business for which it is approved.

Q. What is the employer’s responsibility regarding work permits?

A. The employer must keep the approved copy of the work permit on file. Once the child is no longer working, the employer’s copy should be returned to the Maine Department of Labor.

A. Minors under 16 years old may not work at a water slide because it is considered an amusement. Ski areas and boat rentals are considered recreation, so minors may work there.

Q. Minors under 18 years old are not allowed to work alone at a cash-based business. What is a cash-based business? What does working alone mean?

A. A cash-based business is any business which takes most of its daily receipts in cash. A minor can work alone at the cash register if there is another worker on the premises (e.g., in the next room). Two minors can work together at a cash-based business with no adult present.
