Maine Supports Nursing Moms

Employers of nursing mothers, for three years after the birth of a child, must:

• provide adequate unpaid break time, or permit an employee to use paid break or meal time each day to express breast milk for her nursing child.

• make reasonable efforts to provide a clean room or other location, other than a bathroom, where an employee may express breast milk in privacy.

An employer may be exempted from this section if providing time or an appropriate private space for expressing breast milk would substantially disrupt the employer’s operations.

An employer shall not retaliate or discriminate against an employee who exercises the right provided under this section.

How can employers support nursing mothers?

• Develop a workplace policy, including identifying who oversees implementation, and inform employees of new policy.

• Identify a clean, private place with access to electric outlets and a chair.

• Offer flexible breaks.

What can employees do to make nursing in the workplace easier?

• Understand Maine’s Nursing Mothers in the Workplace Law.

• Create a “back to work” plan before your baby is born.

• Determine scheduling and support needs and talk to your employer as soon as possible.

• Do a workplace walk-through and suggest ideas.

Why do Maine workplaces support nursing moms?

• Average annual savings equals $400 per breastfed baby (lower medical costs with fewer health insurance claims).

• Reduces employee turnover.

• Lowers employee absenteeism.

• Improves employee productivity.

• Raises employee morale and company loyalty.

Additional breastfeeding protection in Maine: The Nursing in Public Law (5MRSA §4634) provides protection for women who nurse in public.

A mother may breastfeed her baby in any location, public or private, where the mother is otherwise authorized to be. For more information on working and pumping visit:
